Maintenance Trades Skill Training

The South-Central Manufacturing Network, Inc. is offering a maintenance trades skill training program starting in May of 2008.

The maintenance training programming will be providing training cost-effectively through a cooperative of local manufacturing companies. Trainers are master tradespersons from the Glatfelter and the Pickaway-Ross Career and Technology Center.

This training will be offered first to cooperative member companies and, if space is available, it will be offered to non-members companies' trainees.

See the South-Central Manufacturing Network, Inc. cooperative website, special projects section at:
